AMERICAN RELIGION VARIES.

THERE ARE ABOUT 130 DIFFERENT KINDS, ALL TOLD.

A Man May Be Any One of Seventeen Kinds of a Methodist or Thirteen Kinds of Baptists, or Even a Pagan.

Rev. Mr. Paul B. Jenkins, pastor of the Linwood Presbyterian church, spoke last evening on "American Religion." In the course of his sermon, Mr. Jenkins said:

"A few years ago there appeared from the press a volume by General Greely, the chief of the government weather bureau, entitled 'American Weather.'

"And to the reader who is interested in our country and all that pertains to it this has proved a most novel and fascinating book, with its many and curious facts given to prove that there can and fascinating book, with its many and curious facts given to prove that there can be found in the United States all varieties of weather. The delightful climate of the Riviera, the burning heats of the Sahara, and the eternal frosts of Siberia all find their parallels within the broad confines of our Union.

"But there is a greater variety and a wider diversity than these that also characterizes our unique American life and civilization. And this is nothing else than what we may call American religion, the creeds and the faiths that characterize our people, and that are held and taught within our boundaries. Diverse as are our extremes of temperature, varied as are our half-Arctic winters and our semi-tropical summers, yet more diverse, more marked, and more characteristic are the features that distinguish the varieties of religion that are accepted among the people of our land. "One may be a Pagan he may worship in one of the numerous temples devoted to Buddha; if a Jew, he may be of the orthodox or the reformed variety; if a Christian because he any one of 120 or 120 kinds. He

Buddha: If a Jew, he may be of the orthodox or the reformed variety: If a Christian he may be any one of 120 or 130 kinds. He may be six kinds of an Adventist, seven kinds of a Catholic, twelve kinds of a Menonite, twelve kinds of a Preshyterian, thirteen kinds of a Baptist, sixteen kinds of a Lutheran, or seventeen kinds of a Methodist. Or, if none of these suits him, he has still a choice of 150 separate and independent congregations, which have no denominational name, creed or connection. And any resident of the United States is legally free to make himself at home with any of these religious companies, and to any of these religious companies, and to adhere to each as long or short a time as any of these rengious companies, and to adhere to each as long or short a time as he will.

"But if we look at these facts from the point of view of the government censustakers of 1890, we shall find that, in spite of these apparent divisions there is the most ample reason for the greatest comfort and the most increased encouragement in the work of the church of Christ. For, dividing all that is called 'religion' in the United States according to its respective principles of faith, we shall find it falling into Christians, Jews and miscellaneous faiths. And on this principle we find that the essentially Christian churches contain more than 36 per cent of the entire religious membership of the whole country. And if, to go a step farther, we subtract from this the Roman Catholic membership, in order to estimate the more evangelical and Protestant membership, we find that the Protestant churches alone contain almost exactly 50 per cent of the evangelical and Protestant membership, we find that the Protestant churches alone contain almost exactly 70 per cent of the entire professing church membership of this country of ours. And these are not partisan figures, they are not the compilation of any over-enthusiastic churchman, they are not the result of prejudice, favoritism or bias, but they are the cold-blooded calculation of the impartial government censustakers, and as such are perfectly reliable."

CHRISTIANITY CHAMPIONED. Dr. Northrop Says There Is Scarcely a Representative Scientist but

Is a Christian.

"The church is getting in closer touch with the leaders of scientific thought, and likewise our representative scientists are in heartier accord with the church and its teachings of Christ and the Book than ever before," said Dr. S. A. Northrop last evening, in the course of the first of his sermons under the head of "Christianity Championed." "We find a surprising number of the leading men of science bowing down before the King of kings and the years who does not acknowledge Christ as a Savior. Even Huxley, who was the first to coin the word agnostic, did not die an

"Thus we have had the testimony of the leaders of science in favor of Christ of Calvery and the Bible as the Word of God. Let lesser minds keep silence with this array of talent consecrated to the extension of the Master's kingdom in the world, or, as Lord Erskine puts it: Thus you will find all that is great, or wise, or splendid, or illustrious, among created beings; all the minds gifted beyond ordinary measure, if not inspired by the universal Author, for the advancement and dignity of the world, though divided by distant ages, and by the clashing opinions distinguishing them from one another, yet joining, as it were, in one sublime chorus to celebrate the truths of Christianity, and laying upon its holy altars the never fading offerings of their immortal wisdom." Thus we have had the testimony of the tars the never fading offerings of their immortal wisdom.

"Such testimonies produced are simply magnificent and indisputable. They tend to inspire confidence to those of us who may be little scientists. The interests of Christianity have no reasons for fear. It is unmanly to be found quaking. Faith is to experience another renaissance. It may not be easy, it may not be possible, but I entertain the strongest confidence that all the conflicts of the passing hour will only result in the truth as it is in Jesus Christ. The age of unbelief and liberalism is passing. I wish you to feel brave, I wish you to feel jubilant. I would like to lift my arm as high as heaven to signify my steadfast faith in the future of our Christianity. I would like to speak with a voice which all the terrified should hear, and take heart again. I would like to raise a shout which shall fill the world with joy over the coming reconciliation between contending forces and the final establishment of the harmony and sacredness of all that truth which God has constituted us to accept; for which scientists have thought, poets have dreamed and martyrs have bled."

Organist Kreiser's Return.

Edwin F. Kreiser, the organist of Grand Avenue church, will return to Kansas City this week after spending several months in Paris, studying under Guilmont, the celebrated organist of that city. The many friends of Mr. Kreiser will be pleased to learn that he will preside at the Grand Avenue church organ next Sunday.

Mr. Kreiser writes to Dr. J. W. Hancher, pastor of the church, from Chicago that he has just reached that city and will play in a Congregational church in Chicago this week, returning to his home in this city in time to resume his place at the organ next Sunday. He expresses himself as delighted to return to America.

Mr. Kreiser went to Paris last April and since that time he has studied very hard, practicing eight hours a day. He has appeared with Guilmont, his instructor, nearly every Sunday in some one of the great cathedrals of Paris. this week after spending several months

At the next meeting of the council the question of changing the time of the meeting from Sunday to a week night will be discussed and some action taken.

Carl Gleeser, the national organizer of the Labor exchange, spent yesterday afternoon at Labor headquarters, trying to interest the union workingmen and the socialists—the Debs socialists, they call themselves—in the movement to organize a Labor exchange in this city. Mr. Gleeser stated that the Labor exchange started a few months ago by G. T. Demarree, of this city, had no connection with the Labor exchange of which he is the organizer. He said that G. B. "YOU'RE A PACK OF FOOLS."

WAS THIS DR. ROBERTS' OPINION OF ALL SOULS' CHURCH?

Scammon Intimates That He Said as Much and Would Let the Doctor Whistle for Back Pay.

"If you hire out to teach school for a number of years, and you say to the school board, 'You are a pack of fools,' I wouldn' pay you anything after that; you might, some of your neighbors might, but I wouldn't. It is my judgment that All Souls' church does not owe Dr. Roberts any back salary." This statement was made by James tees of All Souls' Unitarian church, at a ousiness meeting yesterday of the members of the church who did not follow Dr. Roberts into the field of what they call "nothingness." The statement was made in re-ply to an inquiry by one of the members ingness." ply to an inquiry by one of the members as to whether any back salary is due to Dr. Roberts, the former pastor.

The business meeting followed a sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. W. G. Todd at Lyceum hall yesterday morning. There were, perhaps, seventy persons present, nearly all of whom during the meeting expressed themselves anxious to have the All Souls' church organization continued, and agreed to contribute to its support. The trustees reportthe All Souls' church organization continued, and agreed to contribute to its support. The trustees reported that when Dr. Roberts left the church there were many outstanding bills and about $890 of interest on the church mertgage due. The church was rapidly disintegrating, and the trustees decided to lease the church property for one year for a rental of $90 per month, a large part of the yearly rental being paid in advance, enabling the trustees to pay interest and bills and protect the property, although several of the members contributed sums of $50 and $100 toward the realization of this end.

several of the members contributed since of $50 and $100 toward the realization of this end.

It was decided yesterday that the organization should be continued, and a committee, consisting of O. F. Page, A. S. Yan Valkenburgh, Fred Rayfield, Mrs. L. F. Guiwits and Mrs. G. L. Brinkman, was appointed to act with the trustees of the church who have not followed Dr. Roberts in his departure, in an effort to reunite the members who have remained faithful to the church. This committee is to act this week, and the trustees are to prepare a report of the financial condition of the church, with plans for the continuance of the organization, which are to be submitted to the members at another business meeting, to be held at Lyceum hall next Sunday morning, following a sermon to be preached by Dr. Todd.

Dr. Todd, in his sermon yesterday, said Unitarianism is not a negative, but a positive, religion. "Its creed," he said, "is expressed by its name, unity, it strives to unite on one common plane all religions of the world; to take the essential principles of all and strip them of their points of differences, not only as between the Methodist and Baptist and Presbyterian, etc., but as between all the religions of the world."

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS.

Dr. Roberts Preaches to a Large Congregation at the Coates Opera House.

At the Coates opera house yesterday Rev. Dr. J. E. Roberts spoke to a large congregation on the subject: "What This World Needs Most." The one thing the world needs, according to Dr. Roberts, is faith in itself and a new man. He said there had for years been a growing tendency to distrust patent cures, either medicinal or moral. The distrust of doctrine he held to be in conformity to natural law. Physicians were using less medicine, they professed now to make no cures but they admitted they had lent some aid to overcoming the abnormal conditions that interfered with the work of nature. The activity and change that had come into one field of life had inspired the same in another, and so between morals and medicine there was a suggestive parallel. The old world was not entirely well, but the nature of the disease and the symptoms depended on the viewpoint occupied. The doctors of theology long ago examined it and pronounced it bad, that it could never get well. He declared that repeated consultations in which the evils were so plainly pointed out had helped to make the world bad. There was a subtle correlation between thought and event. Suspicion invites transgression, but buttress up a man there had for years been a growing tenworld bad. There was a subtle correlation between thought and event. Suspicion invites transgression, but buttress up a man with a prodigality of faith in him and that event incites to justice, truth and honor. Wind about him the coils of suspicion and you have digged the pitfalls for his feet. Put spotters after men and you help to procure dishonesty. Until communities and individuals get away from the meanness of suspicion they can never help make the world better. Thrice blessed is that charity that thinketh no evil.

"The world is made in the image and likeness of man." Dr. Roberts argued.
"The fashion of the world changes, so do doctrines change. What the world needs is a new doctrine, that is to say a new man. Let us distinguish. You nor I, nor any man has spoken the least word of divine inspiration or laid his hand upon the final secret of divine power. Let us be honest. This infinite majesty that is capable for the atom and sufficient to control the rushing worlds that ile about us in the atmosphere, flows through us like an energy aroused in the intellect and glorifies human life as life. It may be that what we call evil is a part of the divine plan. Let us repose with unconquerable faith that the infinite power that made this world has His hand upon it and always has had."

EARLY MORNING FIGHT.

Track Repairers and Toughs Come Together and Somebody

Uses a Knife. During a fight between a crowd of toughs and a squad of track repairers for the Elevated railroad at Eighth street and Broadway yesterday morning at 4:30, Mike Leahy one of the trackmen, received several stab wounds in the body. He was removed to Central police station, where Surgeon Norberg attended him.

The trackmen were in charge of a repair car, which jumped the track at Eighth street and Broadway. While they were engaged in replacing it on the track, the toughs approached and quarreled with them. There were only four trackmen and about a dozen touchs, who had been drinking. The latter drove the trackmen into the car and one of them cut Leahy. Officer Merritt arrested C. H. Mason on suspicion. He was held on a charge of disorderly conduct, to appear in police court to-day. He claims his home is in Des Moines, Ia. Central police station, where Surgeon Nor-

For several days the incoming trains have been bringing in numerous fakirs and cripples who expect to reap a harvest from the crowds that will throng the streets during the festival week. There are numerous cripples, men minus a leg or an arm, but well supplied with "gall," who are to be found on the streets all over the city soliciting alms. They come each year, but there appears to be more of them than usual this time.

Confidence Sharks Run In.

Frank Moore, Henry Doyle and Martin Anderson, young men who drifted into town for Carnival week, were arrested yesterday by a squad of detectives at Twelft and Jefferson streets. They were supplied with trick locks and knives, by which means they hoped to work the "suckers" during the festive week. The police think they are wanted in other cities. They will be held pending investigation.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

A comedy drama of considerable interes ras presented at the Ninth Street theater yesterday afternoon and last night and wa eccived with unmistakable signs of approval by the audiences. It is entitled "Old Money Bags," and was written by Mr. Sam Morris, who is also the star of the cast, appearing in a very clever Jewish characterization. The scene opens in a West-ern mining camp and shifts to New York, settings, especially that of the first act, being above the average. The story is melodramatic, and for this reason, as well as for the comedy that is interpersed, seems likely to prove a strong attraction for Carnival week. Mr. Morris mpersonation of the Jew is somewhat original. It is free from the exaggerations original. It is free from the exaggerations that so frequently attend efforts of this sort, and is made entirely lovable. In the supporting company the best people are William A. Tully, who plays an Italian character; Mr. Harry Bruisley, who plays the conventional hero; Dan Williams, who is responsible for much of the comedy in an Irish character; Miss Frances Gale and Miss Helen Teusart. A tiny trained dog called Nip performs some very clever tricks and amuses the gallery immensely. There will be matinees Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, the first three being "bargain" matinees, with a general admission of 25 cents.

Mathews and Bulger, the best farce comedy team in the business, and "At Say Coney Island," one of the best of the many vaudeville farces, returned yesterday to the Grand, where they made a big hit last season. Large audiences attended both afternoon and evening performances, and were kept in continuous laughter by the clever foolery of the stars and their company. Many new features have been added since the piece was last seen here. The company is larger, the pretty girl contingent being noticeably elaborated. Much attention has been given to the beauty and variety of the dressing, and some of the costumes are strikingly pretty. These are seen in medleys, duets and solos and make many attractive stage pictures. Mathews and Bulger have not been spoiled by their remarkable success. They give as neat and clever a performance as they did when they were striving for recognition, and have not presumed on the generosity of the public. The entertainments go, and enough attention has been given to new matter to afford many surprises. Aside from the stars there are interesting contributions by Frank Currier, Thomas Evans, Mark Hart, Jane Whitbeck and especially by Josie De Witt, whose violin solos are still a positive and taking novelty among farce comedy offerings. There will be mathees Tuesday, taking novelty among farce comedy offer-ings. There will be matinees Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, those of Tuesday and Wednesday beginning at

Richards & Pringle's minstrels, in combination with Rusco & Holland's minstrels, are giving performances every afternoon and evening of this week at the Gillss. The combination includes a lot of good people, variously accomplished, and a long line of specialties make up the major portion of the programme, although a laughable sketch called "Mr. Johnson, Turn Me Loose," is an important feature of the programme. Those who like the Southern idea of minstrelsy will find much in the bill to give them amusement, and will be especially glad to welcome the only Billy Kersands in his unique special-ties,

The engagement of Andrew Mack in "An Irish Gentleman" will begin at the Coates this evening, with promises of a very successful engagement. The play is new, and the star, although comparatively unknown here, is said to be the best comedian in the Irish play at this time.

MANUAL TRAINING HIGH.

Pupils Will Probably Have Another Week's Vacation Awaiting Unfinished Work.

When the scholars return to the Manua Training high school this morning they will see many changes, for the building ha been alive with mechanics the past week But it will not be completed. There i much yet to be done before the character istics which will distinguish it can b fairly estimated. During the week the 250 lockers, containing the individual tools for lockers, containing the individual tools for as many boys in the woodworking shor, have been put in place and properly labeled. The huge grindstone, with whice these boys will keep their tools in shape has been put in place, as well as the motor which will run it. The benches, however, at which the boys will work, have not yet arrived, but are on the road and are expected daily. The steam engine was set yesterday, and is in waiting for the 50 K. W. Westinghouse dynamo which will be pected daily. The steam engine was set yesterday, and is in walting for the 50 K. W. Westinghouse dynamo which will be attached to it as soon as it arrives. Until this engine starts one of the chief characteristics of the school will be wanting, for it is by this means that power will be supplied to the ventilating system, to the shops, to the laboratories, and to the lighting of the building. The contract for the gas and electric light fixtures has not yet been let. The electric bells, which will give the signals for the double programme necessitated by the union of manual training with academic work, will be operated by an alternating current furnished by a generator run by the large generator. Therefore, these bells can not be operated till the engine starts. A whistle will continue to serve as a substitute till the power plant is completed.

The carload of furniture which came in yesterday's shipment contained the tables for the physics, zoological and drawing departments; but the furniture for the chemical laboratory and the apparatus cases for some of the laboratories have not yet arrived. The cooking laboratory will not be ready till gas has been secured to the building. The sewing, business and academic departments are about completed, and in them work to-morrow morning will be nearly normal.

While the pupils are expected to report

while the pupils are expected to report premptly this morning, it is probable that the school will again yield to the workmen and to the demands of Carnival week.

Purchase of Cuba in Contemplation.

Purchase of Cuba in Contemplation.

There is a rumor afloat in official circles that, if true, is most important. This is nothing less than that this government is about to make overtures to Spain for the purchase of Cuba. However this may be, it has long been known to the world at large that the value of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a remedy for constipation, malaria, dyspepsia, rheumastism, kidney complaint and nervousness is beyond all price. A wineglassful before meals imparts a hearty relish for the food, and a corresponding dose before retiring contributes to sound repose. No medicinal stimulant on the market ever received such strong professional indorsement as the Bitters. It is a most genial tonic, affording strength to all who use it. Not only in this country, but in many foreign lands, it is an admitted specific and preventive. As a safeguard against all disease of a malarial type it is particularly valuable.

Partly to suit the convenience of our patrons and for the added reason that our present location does not furnish sufficient room for our greatly increased business, we have decided to open an up-town retail crockery store. This will be a strictly retail store, complete in all its details and appointments. We shall aim to carry at all times a large stock, including the richest specimens of pottery and glassware manufactured, as well as cheaper and less expensive grades.

We gratefully acknowledge the continued favor and kindness of the people of Kansas City and the great West, and it shall be our ambition to give to them the most complete Retail Crockery Store west of the Mississippi.

Our extensive wholesale business gives us special advantages in buying from the various markets of the world and makes it possible for us to place such prices on the goods we sell at retail as cannot be duplicated in the Southwest, and enables us to carry a much more complete and varied stock than any other strictly retail house could afford.

Our present stock was bought, in the main, before the passage of the recent tariff bill, and there will be no advance in price on such goods on that account.

While we cannot at present have any formal opening, we extend to our friends and the public generally a cordial invitation to visit our new up-town Retail Store and examine our splendid stock.

MAKE BIG MONEY. We want Men and Women Representatives in every city. THE GOLD STOCK BROKERAGE CO. DENVER, COLORADO.

Being a Kentuckian by birth and education, Miss Hallie Erminie Rives, cousin of Amelie Rives, now the Princess Troubetz Koz, fully understands the nature of the Southerner. Miss Rives lived for years in the rural districts of Kentucky, and has studied the people of that state as earnestly as did her cousin those of Virginia. She has written a novel dealing with lynching—not, she says, with the purpose of excusing that crime, but mainly to show that while it is easy to decry the evil from afar we readily get back to the old Mosaic law, an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, when suffering comes to our own door. The hero is a young Kentuckian, who makes love in a tempestuous way which reminds the reader of "The Quick or the Dead," While attending a university in the North he becomes fired with a lofty purpose to stop the lynching of negroes in his native state. Full of zeal in this crusade, he returns to Kentucky, where for a time he lives in dreamland. One day he encountered a maddened and bloodthirsty mob having with them a ne-
